

a boy named Jack had disappeared from his school one day

The trees seemed to be glowing with an otherworldly light that pulsed in time with his heartbeat

One day, a mysterious package arrived at the school addressed to Jack's teacher

Excitement coursed through him as he gingerly reached down to pick it up, wondering what kind of technology could produce such an unusual artifact

The message seemed to suggest that Jack was not kidnapped, but had ran away willingly and was now playing some sort of game

The police and the school staff were left scratching their heads as they tried to solve the mysterious package and find Jack

